CATAPULT BUILDING

Activity sheet · Playful

Catapult building is a fun year-round activity that will really put the participants to the test.

How do you get a construction like that to work? After an hour of building it is time to prove it – have the participants really managed to build a catapult that throws both far and accurately? This is where participants can really let their creativity flow and build team spirit.

When the catapults are finished they are lined up for the competition – who throws the furthest? We promise lots of laughter and colourful language over faulty launch angles and unpredictable theories of durability! The rules are simple: the longest throw wins!
